An old adage says: "Constant dripping will wear away the hardest of stone."

"Advertising may, in a measure, be likened unto this proverbial water in as much as those who are constantly reading your ads must, in thinking of an article handled in your business, through force of habit if nothing else, instantly connect your name with the article in mind. It is a natural trait of the mind.

AGAIN—

"There is a certain number of people in this city who are going to purchase tomorrow certain articles such as you have in your store. Possibly, some of them have already thought of where they are going to make those purchases. Then, there are others who have not.

NOW—

"Firstly, isn't it reasonable to suppose that if, tonight, those undecided ones in reading their evening paper, should read in an ad of yours that the very article which they had in mind was to be had in the best quality and at a fair price a fair price they would, nine times out of ten, come to your store to make those purchases?

"Still, this leaves you on the sunny side of the probability that of those who had thought of where they would make their purchases more than a few would buy of you should they read in your ad that you were offering the articles in question in a superior grade and at a better figure.

"The business exists! It is simply up to the live merchant to go after it in the up-to-date and businesslike method.

SOUTH DAKOTA'S DANCE PROVES LARGE SUCCESS

The visit of the cruiser South Dakota to Honolulu will be remembered largely because of the brand of entertainment which the officers and enlisted men, and especially the 100 or more members of the Ess Dee Club, are capable of providing. The invitations which had been issued for the Ess Dee Club's farewell dance in the armory last night were generously responded to and, when the first strains of music filled the big hall, more than 300 couples took their places in line for the grand march.

Civilians, sailors and officers, together with the pick of Honolulu's feminine population, made merry and danced the hours away to music furnished by the band of the South Dakota and a Hawaiian orchestra. The jacksies all proved to be splendid dancers; there were partners for everybody and a noticeable absence of wall-flowers. Aided by an excellent floor and splendid music, the evening was a success from every standpoint. The big guard hall was prettily decorated with flags and bunting. In the center was a table loaded with handsome trophies won by the cruiser. Refreshments were served throughout the evening.

The committee of the Ess Dee Club which arranged the dance was composed of Edward McCormund, president; L. E. Ruggles, vice-president; E. Danneberger, secretary and treasurer; E. C. Freese, floor manager, and F. C. Courtney and J. H. Spenser, refreshments. Sailors and officers, as well as the members of Honolulu's younger set, are looking forward to the next visit here of the South Dakota.

FINANCES OF THE WAR, SUBJECT OF LECTURE TONIGHT

W. R. Castle will speak at the Young Men's Christian Association this evening on "The Finances of the War." He will discuss the relation which the present European war will have to the world's markets and in particular to the economic conditions in Hawaii. He is a careful student of economics and his views on this subject should be heard with interest.

Mr. Castle will also tell of some of the international financing which is behind great wars and the bearing which money has on such a conflict as is being waged in Europe at this time. The finances of a war require some of the best of statesmanship of those who direct the European nations. A discussion of the problems underlying this phase of the trouble will be of great interest.

These lectures are free to members and their men friends. Admission is by ticket which may be procured at the Association office.

SUPERVISOR COX IS RESTING EASILY TODAY; NECK MERELY SCRATCHED

Supervisor Andrew Cox, who was reported this morning as having slightly wounded himself in the neck yesterday afternoon at his home in Wailua, is resting quite easily today and his wound is only superficial, according to news brought back by friends who went to Wailua to visit him.

They say also that the supervisor was not injured by the discharge of his gun, as first reported, but that his neck, about the base of the throat, is scratched as the result of the mole during the excitement that followed the accidental discharge of his shotgun. Supervisor Cox has been somewhat ill for several weeks, following a seizure at the city hall one day about two months ago. His wife has been ill also, and Cox has been worrying a great deal.

Yesterday afternoon he went to get his shotgun. His friends say that there was no thought of any fatal purpose in his mind and that he was probably getting the gun to shoot some birds that were around the house. However, the act occasioned some uneasiness and while he was being persuaded to put the gun up, the weapon was discharged, the shot entering the wall. In the confusion the supervisor received a scratch on the neck, but accounts today state that it is not a gunshot wound.

The supervisor and his family are very popular and his illness has brought forth many expressions of sympathy. It is declared to be so slight that it will make no difference whatever in his campaign for reelection as supervisor and his friends are confident that though he may not be immediately able to speak at the meeting he will be given a big vote at the primaries.

SOCIALIST LECTURE.

H. G. Creel, socialist lecturer, will speak at Aala Park, under the auspices of Local Honolulu, Friday evening, October 4, at half-past seven o'clock.—adv.

Sewall C. Strout, associate justice of the supreme court of Maine, retired, died in Portland, aged 86 years. Eleven persons were injured when an Akron to Cleveland car crashed into a baggage car near Bedford, O.

John Toomey, an electric light line-man of Park, Pa., was crushed to death when a pole snapped and fell on him.

STRONG DRAMA AT POPULAR MAKES FOR TEMPERANCE

Curse of Drink Plainly Depicted in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," Current Offering

"Don't go out tonight, daddy. I am going to die and I want you to promise me you will never drink any more whiskey and that you will always be good to mamma." With these words hardly off her lips little Mary Turner passes to the great beyond in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," being shown at the Popular theater, not, however, before she has secured the desired promise from her rum-besotted father and started him on the road to a rediscovered manhood.

Little Mary Turner gives her life as the price for her father's salvation, and it is worth it. Had she not done so three lives would have been wrecked. Joe Turner, his wife and their child. As it is, the sacrifice is made and the man saved from himself and from the curse of drink.

It has been said that a single performance of "Ten Nights in a Barroom" is better than one million temperance lectures, and it probably is. In fact it is a temperance lecture with the "horrible example" in the role of hero—provided the part could be termed heroic. If the application is incorrect then there is no heroism in this world.

Joe Turner starts on life's journey with an outlook of the brightest. With a charming wife, a fine home and business, inherited from his father, the old miller of Cedarville, he allows the rum-shop to interfere with his business. His boyhood companion, Simon Slade, is his foreman and, when it becomes necessary for Joe to raise money on the old mill to keep up his "tavern" habits Simon has it and secures a half-interest in the mill. Simon eventually sells out and opens the finest tavern in Cedarville. Joe becomes the premier customer and is most welcome around Simon's joint—until he goes broke and becomes the "village drunkard." Then he is not so welcome and the proof is had that the saloonman is but a "fair-weather" friend at best. Joe loses his mill and is reduced to want, his wife being compelled to take in washing to keep alive herself and daughter, and to keep her drunken husband in funds.

In endeavoring to effect Joe from the tavern Slade strikes Joe's little daughter over the head with a rum-bottle. The child dies, but first secures from her father the promise that he will not touch drink again. In addition to his promise Joe takes an oath, over the new-made grave of his child, that he will never again touch liquor. He rehabilitates himself, again becomes a half-owner in the mill and a respected citizen of Cedarville. He makes a fight against the tavern and aids in running it out of business.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom" is an elegant demonstration of the old adage, "truth is stranger than fiction." But twice it departs from the plausibility of truth; once when Joe reforms after being a confirmed drunkard, they don't do that often—and again when Slade, the saloonman, is shown "down and out," a booze-besotted bum. Saloonmen see too much of the effects of drink to allow themselves to get in that condition.

From a dramatic standpoint it would be hard to improve on "Ten Nights in a Barroom." Besides the murder of little Mary Turner there is a killing in a card game in the tavern, the murderer meeting a violent death by being thrown from his horse; Slade is killed in a drunken brawl with his son and the son of Joe's partner barely escapes a watery grave. Comparisons are usual odious, certainly so when there is shown on the film the home of the "rum seller" and that of the "rum drinker." It carries a moral that is hard to beat. Another evidence of the saloonman's knowledge of the poison he dispenses is had when Slade says, "I do not want my boy ever to touch liquor or to gamble." Slade knew.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom" will be the offering for the balance of the week, and is one of the strongest of the repertoire of "Blair's Greater Photo-Plays" thus far shown at the Popular.

"CASCARETS" CLEANSE LIVER AND BOWELS

Cure Sick Headache, Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath—Candy Cathartic

Get a 10-cent box now. Are you keeping your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile, from the liver and carry out of the system the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

No odds how sick, headachy, bilious and constipated you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your drugist will keep your head clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a gentle cleansing, too.—advertisement.

RUNAWAY TRAIN AT THE EMPIRE BIG FEATURE

Repeated attempts to wreck a fast moving train, the heroic effort of a girl, who, braving many terrors, succeeds in saving the lives of those dear to her, the crash of two ponderous engines, entailing a loss reaching into thousands of dollars, are many of the fascinating points brought out in the big midweek offering at the Empire theater this afternoon and evening, when the "Runaway Freight," in two parts, will be presented by one of the best companies on the mainland, giving scope to a delegation of clever artists.

As a picture with a decided punch, "The Runaway Freight" is far in the lead as a drama woven about a stirring plot.

In keeping with the high standard set for this house, the management have secured for the first time the sensational mystery story, "The Detective's Stratagem." Dealing with a work that has just made its appearance on the bookshelves, the picture will prove decidedly interesting.

Several of the cleverest comedians in the business today participate in the laughable skit, "A Sense of Humor," which has to do with an unsophisticated young man who would annihilate Indians in Central Park New York, or run the grizzly bear to its lair at Boston or Philadelphia. Under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Jay, the great orchestral concerts are a daily feature at this house.

HAROLD BAUER TO GIVE CONCERT HERE SEPT. 14

Harold Bauer, master pianist, is due to arrive on the Ventura September 11. He will play in the Opera House Monday evening, September 14.

"From the individual point of view the most interesting recital this season was that given yesterday by Harold Bauer. The audience sat absorbed for nearly two hours. Mr. Bauer was wholly in the Schumann vein. He played the intimate fantasie-pieces as probably no pianist but himself has played them in Boston, displaying all his distinctive qualities in the process, his unusual mastery of pedal effects, and the almost limitless palette he possesses to paint the tone-pictures that Schumann dreamed," says Olin Downes, in Boston Post.

Seats go on sale at Hawaiian Promotion Rooms, Young Hotel Bldg., Monday morning, September 7, at nine o'clock.

THROW AWAY YOUR EYE-GLASSES!

A Free Prescription

You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye-strain or other eye-weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing, say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me."

A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona. Fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water, drop in 10 Optona tablets and allow to dissolve. With this liquid, bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.—Advertisement.

PROMOTION COMMITTEE KEPT BUSY EXCHANGING MAIL WITH MAINLAND

The mail which arrived in Honolulu Tuesday, brought 362 letters to the Promotion Committee, the majority containing requests for information concerning Hawaii. In the same mail the committee received 10,000 addresses of persons of means in the United States who are financially able, and at the same time inclined to travel. These addresses were forwarded the committee, upon request, from the assessors of the various counties. The committee will forward illustrated literature and other advertising matter to each address. During the past week, the committee has sent 7000 sealed letters to travel-inclined persons in the United States and Canada, setting forth inducements to visit these islands during the coming winter.
